

Eco Jurisprudence Monitor: Communications Internship

The Eco Jurisprudence Monitor (EJM) is at the forefront of promoting ecological jurisprudence globally, and we are looking for dedicated interns to assist us in sharing these news and updates with the world.

About Us:

The Eco Jurisprudence Monitor is a platform dedicated to providing accessible and reliable information on emerging ecological law. It was developed by an international group of scholars and researchers through a collaborative process rooted in many years of activity by people working all over the world. Our website and data tools monitor ecological jurisprudence initiatives worldwide, compiling legal documents and multimedia resources for each initiative. Eco Jurisprudence Monitor

The Internship:

The purpose of this educational internship is for interns to gain a deeper understanding of the global Rights of Nature movement and the diverse solutions emerging worldwide, especially in the grassroots context. As a Communications Intern, you will gain hands-on experience in crafting and implementing communication strategies, interacting with a global network of academics, activists, and legal professionals engaged in Rights of Nature initiatives. You will play a key role in sharing news and updates and enhancing our outreach efforts.

Responsibilities:

- Craft compelling content for social media platforms, newsletters, and other communications channels to engage and inform our audience.
- Assist in developing and implementing communication strategies to promote EJM's initiatives.
- Monitor and analyze the effectiveness of communication efforts and suggest improvements.

Skills You Will Develop:

- Social media content, strategy and design
- Graphic design using Canva
- Video editing skills
- Analytics and Reporting
- Project management

Who you are:

- A strong interest in ecological jurisprudence/rights of nature and related fields
- Strong communication skills, both written and verbal
- Familiarity with social media platforms and content creation
- Creative mindset and the ability to think strategically about communication initiatives
- Enthusiastic and self-motivated with a willingness to learn.
- Ability to work independently and collaboratively.

Commitment: The internship is expected to last a minimum of 4 months – with the flexibility to stay longer. Communications Interns must be available 10 hours a week, with flexible scheduling across different time zones. Weekly one-hour meetings with the EJM Project Director are scheduled during 9-5pm EST, Monday-Wednesday. This is a fully remote internship.

We are happy to work with interns hoping to receive academic credit for their time with the EJM, though you do not have to be a student to apply.

How to Apply: Submit your resume and a cover letter detailing your relevant skills, passion, and interest to Cat Haas at info@ecojurisprudence.org. Please include "EJM Communications Internship Application" in the subject line, along with your availability. The EJM strongly encourages candidates of all different backgrounds and identities to apply.

Application Deadline: This is a rolling deadline with priority given to early applicants.
